RESHAPING WORK NOVI SAD

TRAVEL HANDBOOK

Novi Sad is Serbia's second largest city, situated in the north of the country, between Budapest (Hungary) and the Serbian capital Belgrade. The most convenient points of departure for Novi Sad are Belgrade (80km), Timisoara, Romania (150 km), Budapest, Hungary (300 km), and Niš (320 km).

TRAVELING FROM BELGRADE AIRPORT TO NOVI SAD

You can choose between several different options for getting to Novi Sad from Belgrade.

The fastest way is to take a taxi, which costs between 6,500 and 8,500 RSD (65-75 euros) and takes approximately one hour. You will be mobbed by cabbies as soon as you arrive at the airport, but many of them are unregistered taxi drivers, and as a foreigner you will probably be asked to pay more than the regular price. We recommend taking a better-known registered company, such as:

Naxis Taxis + 381 64 3581111

Beogradski Taxi + 381 11 2099920

Lux Taxi +381 65 3033 123

Pink Taxi: +381 65 488 9977

You will find taxis parked in front of the departure terminal. Most taxi firms also offer personalised service (a driver waiting with your name displayed once you leave the luggage claim area) that you can arrange in advance.

There are two ride-sharing companies in Belgrade, CarGo and Bla Bla Car, and both offer intercity transfers.

Unfortunately, there is no direct bus from Belgrade Airport to Novi Sad, but you can travel by bus from the Belgrade Bus Station (BAS). To get to the station, take minibus A1 that departs from the same platform where the taxis are parked and costs 300 dinars (2.5 euros).

If you wish to take a cab into the city, the price will differ depending where you want to go. The prices are standardised by zone; vouchers for zones are available for purchase from the taxi information desk. Give the voucher to the taxi driver after you have picked a cab parked outside the departures terminal. This system prevents the driver from charging you more than the price of the voucher. A ride into the city centre costs approximately 1,500 to 2,000 dinars (13 to 23 euros).

Various bus companies operate from the central bus station. Buses to Novi Sad leave every 30 minutes or so, and the average price for a one-way ticket is 700 to 1,000 dinars (6 to 9 euros). Travel time to Novi Sad is about one hour; the arrivals terminal is at 6, Bulevar Jaše Tomića. Visit the official site of the Belgrade Bus Station to check the timetables. Note that tickets are not sold online.

There are also minibus companies operating between Belgrade and Novi Sad. For instance, Geaturs operates the Belgrade to Budapest line, stopping in Novi Sad. You will need to book a seat few days in advance; expect to pay about 30 euros for a return ticket. Tickets are bought on the bus, no payment in advance (or online) is possible. They will pick you up at the airport, or any other address in the city, but you will have to get off at the 'Stara Lokomotiva' car park close to Novi Sad's central railway station.

Please visit the Belgrade Airport official site for additional information about your arrival in Belgrade.

The second largest airport in Serbia is the Nis Constantine the Great Airport which is located 4 km northwest of the city center.

The cheapest way to get from Niš Airport to Novi Sad is to take an intercity bus, which will cost about 1,900 dinars (16 euros) for a one-way ticket; travel time is approximately 4 to 5 hours. There is no direct bus line from the airport to the bus station, but various bus companies depart regularly from Niš Bus Station (Bulevar 12). The timetables are available here.

Traveling by train is limited at the moment due to the construction works taking place between Belgrade and Novi Sad. If you still wish to travel by train, you can take a train to Belgrade and then consider one of the options listed above to get to Novi Sad. Serbia Train is the public train operator and their timetable is available here. Train tickets must be bought at the station (and cannot be purchased online). A one-way ticket costs 850 dinars (8.5 euros).

Finally, the Geatours minibus is another possible option for this route, it will take you to Belgrade but not directly to Novi Sad.

If you wish to arrive to Novi Sad from Budapest Airport you can take a bus, train or a minibus. There are two to three bus connections between Novi Sad and Budapest, and a return ticket costs 3,200 dinars (30 euros). For information, call the Novi Sad Bus Station (+381 21 444022) because the schedule is not available online.

Taking a train is another option. Trains run from Budapest to Novi Sad and vice versa daily, taking 11.5 hours from Budapest Keleti Station and 11 hours from Novi Sad railway station. A return ticket costs 25 euros. Please note that you will need to change trains at Kelebija, on the Hungarian side of the border.

Another comfortable and affordable option is to book a seat on a minibus, especially as most operate round the clock and will take you directly to your desired address. Most companies do not have regular timetables though, and all trips are arranged in advance with passengers. Geatours drops off passengers from Budapest Airport in Novi Sad on its line to Belgrade, as do Terra Travel and Wizz Travel.

Although the Romanian city of Timisoara is close to Novi Sad (the approximate distance from Timisoara Airport to Novi Sad is 150 km), there are few transportation options. No direct train or bus lines are available, while Geatours offers a limited minibus service (if enough passengers request a particular date). Geatours operates minibuses daily to Belgrade, as does Terra Travel. A one-way ticket costs 1,900 dinars (16 euros).

GETTING AROUND IN NOVI SAD

After arriving in Novi Sad, you will be able to navigate the city by taxi, public transportation, or ride-sharing services.

You can hail cabs in the street, find them parked at taxi stations throughout the city, or by calling the contact service in advance. As a foreigner you might get overcharged by unregistered taxis; to avoid this, we recommend using one of the following companies:

Crveni Taxi: +38121445577
Delta Taxi +38121 553 333
Lux Taxi +381216300000
Nacionalni Taxi +38121 444 888
Vip Taxi +38121444000

The following ride-sharing companies offer services in Novi Sad: Uber, Lyft, Taxis, and Limos.

Public transport in Novi Sad is more reliable and accurate than in Belgrade. Most buses run every 10 to 15 minutes from 4 am to midnight. Tickets can be purchased from bus drivers (a single ticket bought on the bus costs 80 dinars). Download the BusNS app to check the timetables.
